REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS BEGIN

GENERAL WOOD, FIRST ON LIST, NOMINATED BY GOV. ALLEN OF KANSAS; BIG DEMONSTRATION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

CHICAGO, June 11.—General Leonard Wood was the first man placed in nomination as Republican presidential candidate at today's session of the Republican National Convention.

Chairman Lodge called the convention to order at 9:56 and after the prayer announced that nominations were in order.

In the roll call of states, Arizona yielded to Kansas and Governor Allen nominated Wood. The first time Allen mentioned Wood's name it was passed unnoticed. The second mention drew applause and the third, wild cheering. When Allen recited how Wood was prevented from going to France there was hand clapping and several horns began blowing. When Allen concluded there was a mighty yell and showers of feathers floated from the galleries.

Many delegations were on their feet including Arizona, New Mexico and New England. The cheering swelled into a mighty demonstration. A procession formed and the chant: "Wood, Wood, Wood," started. Finally the demonstration began to die away and become mechanical. It ended after 39 minutes. Delegate Knox of New Hampshire and Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Dobinson, a sister of Theodore Roosevelt, seconded Wood's nomination. A large sized picture of Wood standing with Roosevelt was lowered from the gallery.

Arkansas yielded to Illinois and Congressman Rodenberger began nominating Lowden. When Rodenberger concluded, numbers of large pictures of Lowden appeared on the floor and Lowden clubs crowded into the aisles for a demonstration. They formed a procession, the feature of which was a pretty girl of sixteen years dressed in pink and carried on the shoulders of two men. She was waving Lowden pictures.

Iowa, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Virginia delegations joined in the Lowden demonstration. Lowdenites shouted: "First ballot! First Ballot!" as they paraded. During the Lowden demonstration it became known that convention officials planned a continuous session until the nominee is chosen. The demonstration lasted 42 minutes.

Former Senator Beveridge came to the platform, relieving Chairman Lodge who went to lunch.

Charles Pickett of Iowa and Mrs. Fletcher Dobbyns of Illinois, seconded the Lowden nomination.

California was next called and Charles Wheeler of San Francisco began nominating Johnson. The preliminary mention of Johnson's name brought a brief cheer. While Wheeler was speaking it became known that Johnson was en route for the convention hall.

At the outset Wheeler's speech was quietly received, but when he said that Johnson had won great victories without financial backing there was a chorus of laughs and hisses. Renewed laughter and cat-calls forced Wheeler to stop speaking and the chairman was asked to intercede. He did and was greeted with more laughter but order was soon restored. Wheeler was applauded for the good nature with which he had met interruption.

"Newspaper publicity is valuable but there are other means through which the people learn of the men God ordained to be their leaders," said Wheeler. The crowd half cheered and in the midst of the cheer there was a cry of "Hearst," from the gallery.

The Wheeler speech was an obvious disappointment to the California delegation and to the Johnson supporters in the gallery. There were cheers when Wheeler announced he was nearing the close, and, deviating from the text of his address he leaned over and shaking his finger shouted:

"Yes, hear! Uncork your prejudiced ears and hear for the first time in your lives what this man stands for." There was silence on the convention floor. "The time has come to drive the bosses from this temple of Republicanism," said Wheeler. Shouts and jeers from delegates were the floor's response.

Wheeler concluded and immediately the California delegation leaped to its feet with great American flags to start a demonstration. They began a procession around the room shouting "Hiram" thru megaphones. The Michigan delegation also was up waving flags. The Johnsonites produced dozens of large flags and signs bearing Johnson slogans. From the mid-gallery an enormous picture of Johnson was unfurled. The Californians shouted: "Hiram, Hiram, We Want Hiram" and urged others to join in the refrain but with little success. The surprise of the demonstration was the complete apathy of the gallery.

At one point in the cheering a woman clothed in black and seated directly behind one of the pillers, opened a great American flag that draped the balcony and leaning far out over the hall waved it frantically in the faces of those below and shouted for Johnson. She met with considerable encouragement and in a few minutes had a number of volunteer supporters.

JACK DEMPSEY TRIAL

FORMER WIFE TESTIFIES IN HIS BEHALF BEFORE THE FEDERAL COURT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Maxine Dempsey was subjected to a gruelling cross examination by the defense in the slacker trial of Jack Dempsey, her former husband, the pugilist, in the Federal Court, today. She cling firmly to her story and efforts to break her testimony failed. She denied that she was to get $40,000 from Dempsey in case he won his next fight.

NEW RESIDENT

JUDGE S. F. DENISON FROM JEROME, ARIZ., EXPECTED TO LOCATE ON HARVARD ST.

D. R. Denison of 702 East Harvard is pleasantly anticipating the arrival of a brother—Judge S. F. Denison—who is now at Loma Linda Sanitarium. The judge visited Glendale and bought property on Harvard street not far from his brother's home about a year ago, and D. R. Denison is hoping that this time he will decide to improve his purchase and make his permanent home here.

The judge has been a resident of Jerome, Ariz., since 1902 and has witnessed the growth of that municipality from a straggling little settlement to a prosperous city. For some time he was engaged in the lumber business. As Justice of the Peace he served the city for six years and on quitting that office became secretary of the Hull Copper Company. When Mr. Hull died he was made one of the ancillary administrators of the estate and he has continued as one of the officers of the Cleopatra Copper Company.

In Masonic circles the judge is known as Past Master of the Verde Lodge of Jerome, Past Grand Patron of the O. E. S., Past Eminent Commander of Ivanhoe Chapter, Knights Templar, and First High Priest of the Jerome Chapter of the Royal Arch. He will be much missed in Jerome and his friends there are hoping that a brief stay in California will correct the slight heart affection from which he suffers caused by the high altitude of the Arizona city and that he will, after a time, return to them and again participate in the business and other affairs of their city.

D. R. Denison hopes his brother will reach here inside of a month.

K. C. PROGRAM

DELEGATES OF GLENDALE COUNCIL RETURN FROM SANTA BARBARA CONVENTION

H. M. Doll and M. J. Brennan, delegates from the Glendale Council, Knights of Columbus to the eighteenth annual state convention of the order held at Santa Barbara June 7th and 8th, have returned full of enthusiasm inspired by the good time they enjoyed and by the program outlined for councils the coming year.

They left here the Sunday preceding the convention, arriving at Santa Barbara about 4 p. m., where they found functions for the entertainment of delegates already in progress. They were accompanied by Mrs. Doll, Mrs. Brennan and Mrs. Frank Clark and were able to secure very satisfactory quarters at the Arlington.

The convention was in session for two full days, Monday and Tuesday, and while delegates were thus occupied their ladies were entertained by Daughters of Isabella of Santa Barbara.

Tuesday evening the convention terminated with a grand ball at Hotel Ambassador, the official headquarters. This did not exhaust the social features with which delegates were entertained and the Glendale representatives have much to say of the hospitality of the hostess city. The social affairs included an afternoon's entertainment given by Daughters of Isabella, which ended with a banquet, an automobile ride around the city, and a grand barbecue in Oak Park at which addresses were made by Santa Barbara's mayor and by Judge Cole of the Superior Court of that District.

There was a full attendance at the convention, two delegates being present from each of the fifty-seven councils in the state besides high officials state and national, and practically the entire slate of officers was re-elected.

The program, as reported by Mr. Doll, emphasized three things, viz: The Americanization plan of the Knights of Columbus, the Boy Scout movement, and schools for ex-service men where they may obtain free instruction along all lines-but especially vocational training. These, Mr. Doll says, will be the outstanding features of the Knights of Columbus program for the coming year.

Edward S. Lawrence of the Ford Agency and Mrs. Lawrence left this morning by auto for the Yosemite. They will join friends there and plan to spend about three weeks in the beautiful valley. On the way they will stop at Bakersfield for a few hours to visit friends.

MISS BEULAH BASSETT GOES BACK TO MISSION WORK IN CHINA ERE LONG

Miss Beulah Bassett, who has been in the homeland for a year past on a furlough from the mission field in Suifu, Western China, is preparing for her return to the work in August. In the meantime she is spending her furlough, which is supposed to be a rest, by giving addresses to aid the cause of missions whenever called upon and is nearly as busy as when on the field. Miss Beulah is the daughter of A. E. Bassett and wife, who are living for a few months at 325 Myrtle. Her father has charge of the stock room and postoffice in the Y. M. C. A. building, Los Angeles, her brother, Rev. Carl Bassett, is a Baptist minister and evangelist, preaching now for the church in Lancaster, and her mother's sister, Mrs. E. I. Upcraft, has been for 37 years a missionary in China, being stationed now at Chentu, province of Szechnau in Northwestern China. Her husband was there in the work with her until death called him home.

Miss Beulah Bassett has been 12 years in the work in China with the Baptist Foreign Board and is enthusiastic over her work and its possibilities. Her station is not far from Thibet, "the forbidden country," as it was formerly called, but which is at last bidding welcome grudgingly to missionaries, convinced at last that they mean only good to the people of the land.

QUEEN FROWNS ON BARE BACKS

(By United Press)

LONDON. (By Mail.)—Queen Mary is branching out as a modiste.

In order to prevent any bare-backs from attending Court functions, Her Majesty has designed a number of evening frocks which she considers suitable. Dressmakers, or ladies about to attend Court, are asked to inspect them and for this purpose they are now being exhibited in the Lord Chamberlain's office, St. James's Palace.

The Queen's designs show a broad-minded desire to compromise between the elaborate dresses of the old drawing rooms and the advanced undresses of today.

Long trains and feathered headdresses are ruled out, and by this economy Her Majesty contrives to retain a suggestion of sleeve and sufficient material to cover part of the back. As an official of the Lord Chamberlain's department put it to the United News:

"The designs are modern, but not ultra * * *"

A generous V is allowed in place of the bare-back and the three styles of dresses are designed for a debutante, a young matron and a dowager. Quite a number of debutantes are voting in favor of the charming low-necked frock allotted to the dowager. In each case the sleeve extends to about one-third of the way to the elbow and there is only the slightest suggestion of any covering of the shoulder.

Because it is Her Majesty's wish to encourage economy until such time as the country shall have become more prosperous, she is dispensing with the trains, bouquets, tiaras, etc., which were part and parcel of past drawing rooms. Those who have them may wear them, but they are not to be considered as essentials.

THE DISEASE OF PESSIMISM

A neurologist who has been classified by his conferees as "eminent" proclaims that the entire human race is afflicted with neurasthenia, or deadly nervous prostration; that this had been an increasing pandemic long before the world war; that the war was one of the effects of it; that this effect has been a cause of other extreme effects, all of which have made for a world-wide aggregation of neurastheniacs, producing conditions from which there is no recovery except reversion to man's primal state of the ideal simple life—presumably that of the ancestral cave people, or the remoter ancestral chimpanzee.

Of course, the professor himself is suffering from neurosis. Pessimism is really an extreme phase of the disease. The person who sees no hope for development to ever and ever better things argues hi sown case hopeless.

The Hohenzollern princes may make a lot of trouble but experience indicates the course they lead cannot triumph.

The mark has gone up to three cents in exchange value, but Americans will prefer their own postage stamps.

Are You Building?

Men of business judgment are not hesitating to build now in spite of the high cost of building. Homes and business property continue to arise on Glendale soil.

How about that building of yours? Why do you hesitate to put your money in this kind of an investment. Are you afraid you may regret the expenditure of the money later?

Go up and down the streets of Glendale and ask those who have built homes and business property during the past year if they regret making such investments. You will find them among the most contented and happy people of Glendale.

And while you are building you might as well employ a contractor who knows his business, one who knows how to buy, who knows how to handle his men to the best advantage, and who does not waste material through ignorance or carelessness.

We are efficient builders but we don't ask you to take our word for it. We refer you to others—to those for whom we have built. We are not in the least afraid to leave in their hands our reputation for efficiency and fair dealing.

Decide to build - then talk it over with us

PRICES ROSE WITH MEXICAN REVOLT

By RALPH H. TURNER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

MEXICO CITY, May 20. (By Mail.)—Though the recent Mexican revolution was remarkable for its absence of serious bloodshed, it had one feature in common with previous revolutions—it caused a tremendous hike in prices.

Every Mexican revolution has been accompanied by certain common characteristics. Scores of farming people, becoming frightened, hurry into the cities. The capital attracts the largest number. The result is double-edged—production of food products wanes and the demand in the cities begins to increase. Simultaneously, speculators get busy on all sides.

The overthrow of Carranza and the circumstances leading to that event were no exception to the rule. As residents of the capital began to stock up with provisions, fearing a siege, prices mounted apace.

In one month the price of charcoal, indispensable in native kitchens, rose from seven centavos a kilo (2 1-5 lbs.) to 14 centavos. The same period witnessed the following increases in stable commodities: Potatoes, from 28 to 60 centavos a kilo; sugar, 70 centavos to one peso; beans, 25 centavos to 36 centavos; corn, 11 centavos to 18 centavos; tomatoes, 15 centavos to 70 centavos. All these prices are by the kilo. A centavos is half a cent in American currency. The increase in vegetable prices was general, the price of cauliflower jumping from 15 to 50 centavos a head.

Corresponding increases occurred in meat prices. "Filete," the best cut of steak sold in Mexico, arose in price from one peso, eighty centavos to two pesos, fifty per kilo. Spring chickens that formerly sold for seventy-five centavos doubled in price. Hens that had sold for one peso, twenty-five centavos are now selling for three pesos.

So marked was the increase in the price of native Mexican products that it was almost as cheap to buy imported American canned goods, which remained more nearly stationary in price.

Today it is believed the peak of high food costs has been reached. Not only is production expected to increase, but the revulotionaries declare they intend putting a curb on the speculators and at the same time may remove, or decrease, some of the duties on imported products.

GASOLINE SCARCE

TRAVELERS TELL OF ACUTE SITUATION IN NORTH BECAUSE OF SHORTAGE

When Mrs. Ella Richardson of Central and Riverdale Drive returned to Glendale Sunday, she was accompanied by her son, Burt Richardson, who acted as her chauffeur when she went north several weeks ago, and her son, John, who had completed his year's work at the Mount Tamalpais Military Academy and was able to join his mother and spend a week with her at the home of his sister in King City. His brother, Paul, had been with him for the commencement exercises, but had to return to his own studies and will not be home until June 15th.

Burt Richardson went on from King City to Carmel-by-the-Sea, where he was the guest of his intimate friend and war comrade, Ned McMurtree, of New York, who is spending the summer at the Pacific Coast resort mentioned.

On reaching Glendale Johnny almost at once secured employment with the L. A. Ice Company and will have no time at home except Sunday afternoons. His mother is passing the word around among his friends that they will be very welcome at the Richardson home next Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Richardson says they were eleven hours on the road coming home because they lost the way they intended to come and got onto a new road which is being built between Saugus and Fillmore. Its approach is most inviting, but as it is still in the dirt-road stage in process of grading, and is eleven miles long, it delayed them considerably.

They were not held up by the gasoline shortage, she says, although they had to pay 37½c per gallon for all they bought on the way and were allowed to purchase only five gallons at a time. She quoted her son as reporting a much more serious situation further north where cars were stranded along the highways because gasoline could not be secured to continue the journey. Frank Taylor, a neighbor of Mrs. Richardson, who represents a Cash Register Company, has returned from the north, she says, and will work down here because the gasoline shortage is not so acute and he can get about. He got as far as Santa Maria before he turned back. He says at Santa Cruz several hundreds of cars were marooned because they could not get gasoline. Drivers had to sleep in their autos and camp beside them, food provisions ran out and there was a good deal of hardship.

Mrs. Richardson reports that Mr. and Mrs. Shives Mitchell have bought a home in King City, of which they have just gotten possession after a two months' wait on the tenants who could find no place to go. She wanted to bring her daughter and grandson home with her, but Mr. Mitchell said: "Nothing doing."

The courage of the Mexicans can no longer be doubted—so many of them are willing to be president.

CITY SCHOOLS

cover the extra cost of materials which, in some instances, has been advanced 100 per cent. The Board in its budget made a general allowance of 50 per cent increase.

Mr. White states that the Board had a pleasant surprise which it is passing on to the public. It appears that about ten days ago the contractors at work on the Broadway School Building advised the Board they were unable to secure the particular kind of interlocking tile called for in the specifications. If they had to wait until they could get it, work would have to be stopped on the building for about ninety days. They proposed to substitute brick for the tile. After canvassing the matter the Board decided it would rather wait than to deviate so materially from the specifications. But Thursday evening the architects and contractors informed the Board they had found a tile which they thought would make a satisfactory substitute. It differed they said in that it lacked the patent interlocking feature, but it could be so laid as to interlock. After giving the matter careful consideration the Board instructed the contractors to use the substitute tile and was assured by them that the school building could be completed by September first. There will be no reduction in the cost of the tile because more time will be required to lay it and more concrete will be required, Mr. White states, but it is a great satisfaction to him and Board members to know that the expected delay can be avoided.

The Board also fixed the date for the opening of city schools at September 13th.

CARD PARTY

MRS. JOHN ROBERT WHITE DELIGHTFULLY SURPRISED BY CLUB FRIENDS

Friends of Mrs. John Robert White, most of them members of organizations to which she belongs, viz, Tuesday Afternoon Club, Foster Bridge Club and Matinee Club, made her the guest of honor at a surprise party given by Mesdames A. M. Beamon, C. O. Pulliam, A. W. Beach and W. E. Evans at the Evans home on North Orange street Thursday afternoon.

As a precautionary measure Mrs. White had been entertained at luncheon by Mrs. R. L. McCourt, who was in the secret. Guests assembled at the home of Mrs. Evans who telephoned Mrs. White that she was wanted. She responded promptly and was astonished enough to find her friends awaiting her. Five Hundred was the chief diversion of the afternoon and at its close dainty refreshments were served. The list of guests included Mrs. R. L. McCourt, Mrs. T. C. Thornton, Mrs. James Mullen, Mrs. W. R. Heustis, Mrs. J. N. Southard, Mrs. Frank Hester, Mrs. Dan Campbell, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, Mrs. C. E Norton, Mrs. V. M. Tresslar, Mrs. J. W. Usilton, Mrs. C. G. Miss Edith Senton of 501 West Vine street left Thursday for San Bernardino to visit at the home of her uncle, E. L. Rice. She will return Sunday.

Rev. L. G. Parker and family of Burbank were in Glendale yesterday to visit Samuel Parker, the venerable uncle of Rev. Parker. The latter is now pastor of the Christian Church in Burbank and is doing a great work there, his uncle says.

W. E. Pelley has had work started on the rebuilding of his cabin in Pacoima Canyon that was destroyed in the big forest fire last summer. He said the canyon now presents the most beautiful appearance in his knowledge of it, the streams running full and the vegetation being unusually heavy. He says there seems to be more water in the ground than ever before at this time of the year.

W. J. Clendenin, a former resident of Glendale who is now living at 1228 West Fifth street, Los Angeles, was a visitor in this city today. He is just getting out after being confined to his home for three weeks by an attack of pneumonia. He says he still feels a little weak but is gaining steadily and hopes soon to be back to his normal health. The two houses he has been building on Kenwood street have both been sold, he reports, and he is planning to continue his building operations.

LA CANADA THURSDAY CLUB

The La Canada Thursday Club held its last business meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. R. B. Waterman on the afternoon of June 10th. The program consisting of two interesting papers was enjoyed by all. One of the papers was by Mrs. J. W. Stultz and was entitled "Industries That Have Come to Los Angeles." The other paper, read by Mrs. Swarthout was on "America's Place in Music." Dainty refreshments were served during the social hour following the program, the club colors of crimson and gold being carried out in these and in the floral decorations. Twenty members and two visitors were present.

BIG SOCIAL EVENT

BAPTIST CHURCH RECEPTION FOR PASTOR AND NEW MEMBERS—MORTGAGE BURNED

A splendid reception was held at the First Baptist Church on Thursday evening, and while it was primarily in honor of the nearly one hundred new members received into the church during the past year, it also marked the end of the first year that Rev. Ernest E. Ford has occupied the pulpit as pastor. The church was beautifully decorated and a delightful program was rendered, including special music by the church Orchestra, vocal solo by Mrs. Edna Brisbane and whistling numbers by Miss Florence Brown, both of whom had been engaged to come out from Los Angeles especially for the occasion. Then came perhaps the greatest event of the evening when the indebtedness of the church was made a thing of the past by the burning of the mortgage which caused much congratulation from Dr. Francis of the First Baptist Church of Los Angeles, who was a special guest and who made an entertaining talk. After that Rev. Ford bade farewell to his people in view of his two months' absence for a trip East where he will attend the Northern Baptist Convention at Buffalo, N. Y., and his own college class reunion at Kalamazoo, Michigan. From there he will visit his aged mother in New York State whom he has not seen for many years. It was a wonderful evening of good things, and last but not least, delicious refreshments were served in the Junior Room which had been completely transformed by immense bowls of yellow coreopsis visible in every nook and corner. While his many friends and his congregation will greatly miss Rev. Ford during his absence, one and all wish for him a pleasant and profitable sojourn with his friends and coworkers in the East.

AUTO OVERTURNED AND DAMAGED

There was considerable of an auto accident at the crossing of Los Feliz and San Fernando Roads this morning about 6:30. J. Ghio and wife of 212 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, were driving south in a Briscoe car and H. O. Galley of 163 North Central Ave., Eagle Rock, was driving west in a Ford. In reports to police headquarters each driver claims that the other ran into him but the result was that the Briscoe was overturned and Mrs. Ghio considerably hurt. Both machines were badly damaged, each having a wheel broken and other injuries. Mrs. Ghio was taken home by her husband, who first called up Bine Smith of the Broadway Auto Sales Co., an old friend, and directed him to tow his machine to the shop for repairs.

A THEORETICAL PLAN

According to Dr. Carnot of the University of Paris, American youths are yearning for French wives. The doctor recently gave out a statement urging an international marriage pool to relieve the man shortage in France and he says that he has been astonished by the number of letters he has received from every state in the American Union indorsing his plan and filing specifications bearing on the kind of a wife wanted. He suggests a committee to cooperate in arranging such marriages.

While it is true that no small number of American soldiers capitulated to the charms of the French girls and many marriages resulted, it was the wife that gave up her homeland and the environments of her nativity to live in a country that was strange in language, customs and laws. Under the Carnot plan it would be the husbands who would renounce their citizenship, for it is a condition of the proposition that residence after marriage must be taken in France.

To the enthusiastic Frenchman the idea may not present possibilities of failure, should it be undertaken. However, it has been demonstrated that a considerable proportion of the war marriages contracted by American boys and French girls were less successful than could have been wished. It is not probable that many American boys could transplant themselves to France and be happy amid a people so foreign to our American ways.

The independence of thought and action which the American atmosphere appears to breed might find a sterile soil in a land where custom and tradition are far more inexorable than here. France needs to re-people her land, but it is a matter of doubt whether she will be able to accomplish her purpose by inducing American youths to make their homes there even though she offers so tempting a bait as a French wife. The American husbands might long for the homeland as ardently as have some of the French wives who came here and with results as disastrous to the family.

"THE DOLDRUMS" AND POLITICS

Long-time observers of politics deplore the apparent lethargy of the American people toward the candidates for presidential nominations. Despite the hubbub that has been raised in various quarters for favorite aspirants, it is generally true that the average man is sitting back and thinking. And inquiry may reveal that in this respect the present lack of excitement differs from present eras of "the doldrums" in that today the nation has its thinking cap atop its head. The calm is not indifference; it is the hesitation that precedes history-making decision.

Before the summer is over—unless the conventions fall down woefully at their task of defining issues and ideals—we shall be regaled with a wealth of the political enthusiasm that the elders of today regard as old-fashioned and healthful. Great questions call for solution and in such momentous days there can be no lack of great leaders, for the times are such as breed stalwart champions. No wonder some wise-acres are hinting at the possibility of a "dark horse" electrifying the country. In a very real sense, too, candidates frequently mentioned for the White House may, under the stimulus of the hour, show qualities little less amazing than if they had been previously unknown. Not all the dark horses are unnamed.

The prologue of the primaries has been a bit dull when not bewildering. But behind the scenes may even now be heard the rumble that will reach its climax in the storm of ballots of November. It is well to study the plot closely, for every man in the vast audience will be called upon some day, perhaps every day, to play a part in the performance.

WAR DID NOT INCREASE WEALTH

In urging on congress an appropriation a writer asserts that the "war increased the wealth of this nation greatly." The statement contains an error into which many have fallen. It is true that the war increased the wealth of many individuals, but not of the nation as a whole. While the definition of wealth is a disputed one and subject to exceptions, in view of the expenditure of $25,000,000,000 or more for a purpose from which there could be no tangible return, the turning of a large part of our population from the production of wealth to the destruction of the sources of wealth, it would have been an impossible task to have paid as we went and by such means only could we have held our own, much less have added to our wealth. Wealth's chief measure is its exchange value.

Though one may be drawing twice the wages received six years ago, if the present income does not purchase more of the necessities of life than the former did, one has no more wealth. Money is not a true gauge of wealth. A house that cost $5,000 two years ago might sell for $10,000 now, but the owner's wealth will not have been increased if to replace it costs all that he received. This nation will not have regained all that it lost by the war until the cost of the war is paid, and we are far from that now. To meet the enormous expense of the war the nation drew on the surplus of its citizens and mortgaged the future and to reimburse the lenders it will draw on earnings through taxes for many years to come.

Human life also has its part in the war loss. While our death list was not so great comparatively, it did remove men who under normal conditions would have been producers of wealth. France's 1,400,000 dead constitute an enormous loss of wealth to that nation. Our farms and mines and mills and other forms of wealth production may have a greater dollar value than they had before the war, but they do not represent greater wealth if their exchange value is no greater than in pre-war days. Neither can a nation become wealthy by destroying the sources of wealth production faster than they can be replaced.

FICTION BECOMES FACT

Readers of popular novels and patrons of movies will recognize in the story describing how Gregory Zatkowitch, a Pittsburg steelworker, has become ruler of Ruthenia, a little nation in "the wild Carpathians," a favorite plot of the authors of fiction.

The war and its aftermath have produced in Central and Eastern Europe many curious events which, if they had been made the basis for the plots of novelists and scenario writers prior to the great war would have been regarded as entertaining fiction but utterly beyond the range of probability. The story demonstrates that the romantic and the realistic can be made to coincide.

Life insurance companies no doubt make a special rate on the risk of Mexican presidents. And it must be somewhere near 100 per cent.

WOMEN WAX STRONG IN BRITISH POLITICS

(By United Press)

LONDON. (By Mail.)—The political strength of English women is becoming increasingly widespread and effective.

No question is discussed in Commons without all the members having due regard for its effect on women's opinion. When the bill admitting women of 21 years and over to the franchise becomes law, there will be something like a million more women voters than men voters.

Lady Asquith in a recent speech to the British Housewives Union told her audience that a prominent member of Parliament had told her that "women have got the Commons well on the run," while she also reminded them that the "fear of the loss of a vote is still the best pin with which to prick an M. P."

At all women's meetings it is clearly indicated that the women have found a new use for their scissors—they intend to snip through every inch of red tape that stands in the way of progress. They claim that the government suffers from want of backbone on account of party politics, and while they admit that a government of archangels would not satisfy the people of the country at present, at least they intend that the obvious steps towards improvement shall be taken, and taken immediately.

The question of high prices at the moment agitates the minds of Britain's womenfolk to the exclusion of everything else. With dogged perseverance they are hammering away at the House of Commons. Members are besieged regularly with postcards on the subject. Meetings are being held in all parts of the country, and so far two resolutions have been forwarded to the Prime Minister. One is that the government shall cut their loss and clear the docks, and the other that state monopoly shall be removed "in toto" in order that competition shall have a chance to bring prices down.

No political flutter is complete without a woman speaker. There are hundreds who say that Asquith owes his generous majority at the recent Paisley election to the witty and clever speeches of his daughter, Lady Bonham Carter.

It was without doubt the hard work put in by Lady de Frece (or "Vesta Tilley" fame) that secured for her husband Sir Walter, a bouncing return.

THESE TATTINGS FESTS

By MARGARET ROHE
(Written for the United Press)

The dear girls knit upon the porch
For June time recreation;
And for each garment made they tear
To shreds a reputation.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The hand-painted porch furniture, the basket chairs and the gaily cretonned divan swing are all full these golden afternoons of June. They are full of fluffy femininity, crisp and cool in white linen, or cool and ruffly in organdie and swiss.

Something about the propinquity of two or more females, all accoutred with knitting needles, needles and thread or crochet hooks, makes it a foregone conclusion that their tongues will prove sharper than their tools, and that "felininity" would be a much more appropriate word to describe these little tatting fests.

But while they are all unanimous and concentrated on the one thing they specialize in tearing to shreds, varied and diverse are the multitude of things their nimble fingers evolve as tongues falter not, needles fly and golden moments flit.

There seems to be a homely utilitarian effect about the summer girl's handiwork these rare June days. She has turned to the crocheting of pastel tinted rags into quaint old-fashioned oval rugs. Round ones, too, she makes, and any and all color combinations to match up the cretonne hangings of her room sne uses, with always a dash of black to bring out the other tints in contrast. These crochet rugs are best made of plain-colored ginghams, and are as effective and artistic as the professional hand-braided, rag rugs that are made of dyed, unbleached muslin.

Since the fad or vogue for these hand-crocheted rag rugs has entered into the summer girl's simple life, her vision of rags has broadened beyond that of the jazzeries.

Then there are the hand-knitted wash clothes that are unfurled in all the white purity of knitting cotton and ivory needles, until 60 stitches on the needle and 49 rows complete their symmetry ready for a yellow, blue, pink or lavender crocheted edge of mercerized thread. The summer girl, her mother, cousins, aunts and little sisters are turning these soft, durable and attractive wash clothes out by the dozens and thereby knocking to smash small brother's h. c. of washclothes' alibi for a perpetually soiled countenance.

For her own adornment she is knitting colorful scarves of wool, the most brilliant hues she can find, one for each day in the week. Worn with white skirts, white shoes and stockings, white hats, and sheer white waists that are intricately and elaborately hemstitched also by her own fair hands these scarves add the one needed splash of vivid dye that makes the summer girl an object of perfection worth dying for.

The revolution is regarded as a joke in Mexico. That makes it unanimous.

He's a regular human being with the same virtues, frailties and sympathies as you, and your banker, and your butcher.

He knows kiddie human nature—he holds the mirror in which you can see the antics of the your own dear ones reflected.

He's a disciple of Robert Burns, too—he helps us "see ourselves as others see us."

CHURCH NIGHT AT CENTRAL CHRISTIAN

Between 50 and 60 members of the church and friends partook of the weekly Church Night supper at Central Christian Church Wednesday evening, between 6 and 7 o'clock. At 7 the Bible study on the first 24 chapters of Ezekiel was conducted by Rev. C. A. Cole, who is making this part of the regular Wednesday evening church service intensely interesting and instructive. The prayer meeting followed, from 7:45 to 8:30, with Mrs. R. M. Jackson as leader, the topic being "The Call for Volunteers," for mission field and home pastorates, with special reference to the many young people who at this time are closing their school life and choosing vocations. The attendance was gratifying and participation in the prayers and discussions was general.

Quite a crowd of rooters accompanied the Glendale boys to the game.

Ray Borthick has taken out a permit for the remodeling of his garage building at the northeast corner of Colorado and Brand, soon to be vacated by the Hudson and Essex agency for the new showroom Ray is getting ready for them. A partition will be built across the center of the large main room and the front part used for the office of the Glendale branch of the Auto Club of Southern California. The remainder of the building will be remodeled for other purposes as soon as the Reliable Garage moves out, which will be as soon as J. L. Booth puts up his building for that purpose on the lot he recently bought next to the corner of Louise and Colorado.

Mrs. Charles Rifenberick, who since last fall has been operating the hotel she and her husband own on South San Fernando Road, reports that the two of them and her husband's mother plan to motor to Berkeley this summer to visit her son, Lorenzo Rifenberick and his wife—formerly Miss Ruth Williams of this city. Mrs. Lorenzo recently visited her parents here and has just returned to Berkeley. Mr. and Mrs. Williams expect to be her guests next fall.
